NARROW ESCAPE IN SWOLLEN CURRENT

William Carnine, of Spraytown, Able to Reach High Ground but Loses His Horse.

BUGGY CARRIED DOWN STREAM

Hamilton Township Merchant Has Close Call Along Rock Fill Near New Ford Bridge.

William Carnine, a merchant at Spraytown, Hamilton township, narrowly escaped with his life, his horse was drowned and his buggy was swept away by the flood current of White River this morning when he attempted to drive across the rock fill just north of the New Ford bridge. Because of the recent rains, the river is swollen and is flowing over the roads in many of the low places. At the point where the accident occurred the current is very swift. The road is entirely submerged so that it is impossible to see the deep ledge on the west side of the fill.

Mr. Carnine was on his way to this city on business. He was driving one horse to a light buggy and just after the horse waded into the water across the road he lost his footing, due either to the swift current or a false step over the ledge. The horse and the buggy started down the stream and Mr. Carnine jumped from the vehicle and tried to cut the horse from the harness. While he was struggling to free the animal he lost his balance in the swift current and for the moment had difficulty in keeping above the water. He managed, however, to get hold of the buggy and finally regained his feet and waded to safety.

John Lawell, who lives near the place where the accident occurred, happened to be going towards the bridge when he met Mr. Carnine who had started back towards Cortland for assistance. When Mr. Lawell reached the point where the accident occurred the horse had entirely disappeared and it is believed that he was drowned while Mr. Carnine was trying to save himself. Only a small part of the buggy was visible. The vehicle was being carried further down the stream this afternoon.

Mr. Carnine returned to Cortland and was taken to his home by Fred Wheeler. He was so unnerved by his experience that he was scarcely able to talk and did not try to give any of the details. Other than the severe nervous shock, he was not hurt.

During times of high water the road along the rock fill is quite dangerous on account of the eddy current which sweeps over it. Several times in the last few years vehicles have been carried from the road and the occupants have had narrow escapes from drowning. The accident occurred at the same point where Ed Steinkamp met with a similar experience a few years ago.

All of the streams and branches in the county are swollen today, because of the heavy rainfall on Thursday and Friday. The freeze last night prevented much of the water from reaching the streams. White River continued to rise about three inches an hour during the night and this morning but reached a standstill about noon. The government gauge at the pumping station shows a stage of thirteen feet. Rivermen do not look for a further rise of White River at Rockford but believe that it will get some higher farther down stream.

The Seymour-Jonesville road is covered with water at several places and travelers here say that it is dangerous to cross the water which overflows the road at the small culvert just west of the Rockford wagon bridge. Several horses hitched to light buggies have had difficulty in wading through the current today. It is believed that the water will recede in this vicinity during the night.

Councilman a Suicide.

Shelbyville, Ind., January 6.—Samuel Herthel, seventy-two, a retired farmer and member of the common council of this city, hanged himself in his barn here early today. Members of the family found the body. It is believed worry over ill health caused the suicide.

THIRTY DAYS LEFT TO FILE NOTICES

Candidates for Nominations for City Offices in Primary Must Soon Open Campaigns.

FEBRUARY 3 LAST DAY TO FILE

Most of the Prospective Office Seekers will Make Intentions Known This Month.

Prospective office seekers who have been casting longing glances towards the city elective offices have but thirty days left to file their intentions to enter the primary which will be held on March 6. The primary law provides that candidates for nominations must file their intention to enter the races not more than sixty days and not less than thirty days before the primary. No notices have as yet been filed which means that all of them must be filed between January 6 and February 3.

The city organizations have been effected, the chairmen and other offices named and all other preliminary preparations completed for the primary. The law provides that the city clerk shall perform all the duties of the county clerk in the general election and that the city council shall serve in the same capacity as the county commissioners in a general election. The chief of police performs all the duties which devolve upon the county sheriff in a state or national election.

The question has been asked as to whether or not it is necessary for this city to hold a primary for the nomination of candidates for city offices. The law makes this method of selecting candidates mandatory upon every city and the primary will be held here unless the legislature decides to amend the present law. It is being urged that the law be changed by the present legislature on account of the long campaign that will result under the present requirements. While the candidates are nominated in March the election will not be held until the first Tuesday after the first Monday in November.

Candidates desiring to seek the nomination for any city office are required to file with the city clerk a statement showing the precinct and ward in which they live, the name of the party of which he is a member and under which emblem he will seek the nomination and the place for which he desires to make the race in the primary. The cost of the primary is defrayed by the candidates, each paying a fee which is fixed by law and which is based on the amount of the salary paid by the office.

Considerable interest is manifested in the names which will probably appear on the primary ballot. Up to this time no intentions of nomination have been officially filed at the city clerk's office and it is generally believed that few will be filed until after the middle of the month. The offices to be filed are those of the mayor, city clerk, city treasurer and the seven councilmen. One councilman is chosen from each ward in the city and two are chosen at-large. There is much speculation as to the probable candidates for Mayor. Rumor has it that City Clerk C. W. Burkart is almost sure to become a candidate on the Democratic ticket and the name of Leroy Miller has also been mentioned in this connection. The name of Silas Schmitt, present city chairman of the Democratic organization, has been mentioned as a probable candidate for clerk or treasurer. He has served as city treasurer.

It is known that J. H. Andrews, a member of the council, is being urged to get into the race for mayor on the Republican ticket and it is also reported in political circles that Mayor Ross may again become a candidate. While the state law provides that city mayors cannot hold the office more than four years out of eight, an exception is made in the cases of those who were in office at the time the law was passed. Mayor Ross was mayor at that time and is qualified to again become a candidate if he so desires. Various other names have been mentioned in connection with the clerk's and treasurer's position, and it is almost certain that several pretty races will be staged for each place.

VARIOUS VIEWS GIVEN ON THE SEWERAGE PROBLEM

Proposed Construction of Two Laterals for Open Ditch Revives the Question.

That the sewerage problem is the next important one for this city to solve, is the general belief of the citizens as gathered from the numerous discussions which result from the proposed construction of two laterals to be drained into the big canal west of the city. While nearly everyone agrees that the question is a vital one to the development and future growth of the city, it is difficult to find any considerable number of people who can agree upon the same method of solution. Some have stated that they are in favor of petitioning the council to build a complete new system, providing an outlet that will be adequate for years to come. Others insist that the present system is adequate if some means could be decided upon that would relieve the main sewer of all surface water. Others propose an additional outlet to the present sewerage system.

It is expected that the councilmen will have the situation well in hand when they meet Tuesday night to discuss the proposition of building two laterals in connection with the canal which the farmers west of the city desire to build. Those interested in that method of solution to the sewerage question will be given an opportunity to present their views at the Tuesday night meeting, and it is expected that quite a number of the landowners will be present.

MAYOR CALLS ATTENTION TO ASH REMOVAL CONTRACT

Reminds Residents That Ashes Must be Kept Separate From Cans and Glass.

Mayor Ross has reminded the residents of the city that the ordinance providing for the removal of ashes and rubbish, specifies that glass, tin cans, etc., cannot be dumped into the same receptacle with ashes if the property owners expect the city to haul away the debris without charge. Some complaints have been made recently that the ashes were not being removed, but upon investigation it was found that they were not being kept as required by the ordinance. It is pointed out that it is quite important that no glass or cans be thrown in with the ashes. In a few cases glass has been found in the garbage receptacles.

Because of the thawing weather and the heavy rains recently many of the roads in the county are in bad condition. While the gravel was soft it was easily cut by the wheels of the vehicles and now that the ground is freezing again the highways are very rough.

SEYMOUR ALLEY TEAMS ARE RETURNED WINNERS

Lutheran Pin Artists Defeated in Interesting Match Contests Last Night.

Both the first and second teams of the Seymour alleys were winners in their games with the first and second Lutheran teams last evening. The first teams rolled at the Lutheran alleys, and the second teams at the Seymour alleys. The score at the Lutheran Club was 2191 to 2171. Cordes, with a total of 485 pins for the three games, was high man for the winners, while O. Ahlbrand, with 497, had the best mark for the Lutherans. The team scores for the three games were as follows: Lutherans ... 673 722 776 2171 Seymour Alleys 717 729 745 2191

At the Seymour alleys the second teams gave the spectators three interesting games. The Seymour Alleys' team won the first two games handsily, while the Lutherans came back and won the third. Groub, with a 219 score in the second game, and Appel, with a 196 count in his first game, were high for the winners, and Steinker, with 180 in his last game, was high for the Lutherans. Appel led in the total three game score, with 536; Groub had 512, and McColgin was third with 472. The team scores for the three games follow: Lutherans No. 2: 692 678 727 2097 Seymour Alleys No. 2: 760 809 680 2249

ALMOST $16,000,000 ADDED TO 1916 TAX DUPLICATES

Assessors File Report with State Board at Sixteenth Annual Conference.

Almost $16,000,000 in omitted property was added to the tax duplicates of Indiana by the county assessors of the state during 1916, according to reports made to the state board of taxation by the assessors at the last session of the sixteenth annual conference of the board and the county assessors, at the state capital. This amount does not include the amounts added to the tax duplicate by county boards of review, or by the state board. In Marion county, $4,361,904 in omitted property was added to the tax duplicates by C. A. Schmidt, county assessor.

NOTE REPORTED BY TICKER SERVICE

Dispatch Sent Out by Dow-Jones Service Read to Committee by Representative Gardner.

FINANCIAL WRITERS CALLED

Entire Staff of Washington Financial Papers Will be Questioned in "Leak" Probe.

By United Press. Washington, January 6.—Representative Gardner, of Massachusetts, today supported his charge that there was a leak of advance information to Wall street of the President's peace note, by reading a dispatch sent out by the Dow-Jones Ticker Service shortly before 2 o'clock on the afternoon that the note was released.

The ticker report told of renewed selling on the market because of advices from Washington that the United States "will address proposals of peace to the warring nations in the near future."

Gardner read the ticker report to the house rules committee in its probe of charges made in the resolution of Representative Wood of Indiana.

Suspicion of responsibility for the leak today practically narrowed down to the financial writers and embassy attaches abroad. Subpoenas were issued for the entire Washington staff of the financial papers.

Secretary Lansing, it was announced today, will testify before the committee Monday.

Representative Wood was recalled to the stand today and was asked regarding the letter he received from "A. Curtis" in which he told of alleged conferences between Presidential Secretary Tumulty and a broker.

BELIEF EXPRESSED OF AN U. S.-ALLIES ALLIANCE

Kaiser May Regard Entente Reply to His Peace Note as a Refusal.

By United Press.

Berlin, Jan. 6.—The discussion in congress at Washington on America's international relations following the recent peace note has resulted in the belief in some quarters that the United States and the allies are gradually drifting together rather than the United States and neutrals co-operating for peace. This belief has been aroused especially by the discussion of a change in America's international and political policy which would make foreign alliance possible. The kaiser has declared that the entente reply may be considered a refusal of Germany's offer of peace.

Organized at Indianapolis Today.

By United Press.

Indianapolis, January 6.—The Indianapolis republican city committee met this afternoon at the call of City Chairman H. W. Klausmann to consider the reorganization of the committee and the election of a new city chairman at this time. The republican state central committee ordered that city chairman in all cities in the state be elected on January 2.

Klausmann doubted the right of the central committee to call for the election at this time under the primary law and refused to call the meeting as directed. Instead he called today's meeting at which the city republican leaders will discuss the advisability of electing a new chairman.

TWO CONFERENCES DISCUSS WAR PLANS

Allies' Representatives Meet in Rome Teutons at Kaiser's Field Headquarters.

"ANSWER" TO PEACE NOTES

Believed Both Sets of Belligerents Will Conduct Vigorous Prosecution of War.

By United Press. London, January 6.—Interest today centered in war—not in peace. Two conferences, one by the allies and one by the central powers indicated that both sets of belligerents intended to make answer to the peace notes by force of arms.

The allies' conference was at Rome. Premier Lloyd George and other high officials represented England; Premier Briand represented France and Russia sent a member of its general staff. The conference was taken here to forecast a more vigorous prosecution of the war.

The Teutonia conference was reported at the field headquarters of the kaiser. It was believed here that the central powers' conference was to discuss what had happened to the German peace plans.

Mexican Officials Report That Carranzistas Defeated Bandit Leader's Army.

By United Press.

El Paso, Tex., January 6.—That the Carranzistas have defeated the Villistas near Jimenez was the claim made by the Mexican officials today. The statement claims that Villa is fleeing and his forces have been scattered. The bulletin declares Villistas dead, wounded and captured numbered 1,500, while the losses sustained by the government forces were placed at 100.

Reports obtained by U. S. department agents here, however, assert that the result was not a Carranza victory, but that Villa is steadily forging his way northward.

SENATE APPROVES U. S. PEACE NOTE

Compromise Resolution Wins After Debate.

VOTE ENDS STORMY SESSION

Climax Reached When Senator Lewis Declares the United States Is in Danger of Being Involved in the European War.

Washington, Jan. 6.—The senate put the stamp of approval upon President Wilson's request for a statement of peace terms from the European belligerents when it voted at the conclusion of three days of stirring debate. Action came with dramatic suddenness when Democratic leaders decided to accept a form of resolution that would not commit the senate to indorsement of the whole of the president's note and ten Republicans of the progressive group joined the majority in making the vote 48 to 17.

Senator Martine of New Jersey was the only Democrat to vote in the negative.

Debate on the subject had reached a climax during the day with a sensational declaration by Senator Lewis, chief spokesman for the Democrats, replying to Republican criticism of the president's course. Without referring directly to the submarine controversy, the senator said the United States could not keep out of the war if it continued and that America would not again accept misconception of orders or zeal of an officer as an excuse for an injury to a citizen or property.

The chief objection urged against the original resolution offered by Senator Hitchcock was that it would indorse the president's offer to join in a movement to guarantee world peace and his declaration of the interest of the United States in small nations. Progressive Republicans joined Senator Lodge and others in this contention.

The resolution adopted was proposed by Senator Jones, Republican, of Washington, and was accepted by Senator Hitchcock as a substitute for his own. It resolves:

"That the senate approves and strongly indorses the request by the president in the diplomatic notes of Dec. 18 to the nations now engaged in war, that those nations state the terms upon which peace might be discussed."

The compromise ended debate when it appeared certain that action would be deferred, and soon after Senator Borah had begun a vigorous speech against the original resolution.

Senator Borah, attacking the Hitchcock resolution, said that in his judgment the United States, by approving the president's note, would bind itself in the future with European nations to protect the integrity and security of smaller European nations and that, if this meant anything at all, it meant that the army and navy of this nation must be at the disposal of any world combination the war's end might see to give this protection.

The Hitchcock resolution read as follows:

"That the senate approves and strongly indorses the action taken by the president in sending the diplomatic notes of Dec. 18 to the nations now engaged in war, suggesting and recommending that these nations state the terms upon which peace might be discussed."

Senator Borah suggested that the end desired by the Nebraska senator might be accomplished by other resolutions before the senate which are not so broad in their approval.

"There is a resolution of the senator from Washington," said Senator Hitchcock, rising suddenly. "If that would be acceptable to the senator from Idaho I will accept it."

LORD ROSEBERY

He May Come to the United States as British Ambassador.

Washington, Jan. 6.—Rumors have reached Washington that there is a probability of Lord Rosebery succeeding Sir Cecil Spring-Rice as British ambassador to the United States at an early date. Lord Rosebery is credited with having in his youth wanted to accomplish three things—to take a double first at Oxford, to marry the richest woman in England and to be prime minister. All these came to pass. His wife, now dead, was a daughter of Baron Meyer de Rothschild.

Columbus, Ind., Jan. 6.—Because it is alleged the Interstate Public Service company failed to take proper care of a drunken man, suit has been brought against the company in the circuit court here for $10,000.

The action is brought by John W. Dunlap, father of Max Dunlap. According to the complaint, Max Dunlap came to this city and became intoxicated. It is alleged that the agent of the traction company sold him a ticket to Mineral Springs, a short distance from this city. At that point it is asserted the conductor put Dunlap on the car, although the complaint charges the conductor well knew that Dunlap was too drunk to look out for himself. A freight car on the same line soon afterward killed Dunlap.

TEUTON FORCE TAKES BRAILA

Roumania's Most Important City Lost.

DOBRUDJA HELD BY GERMANS

Announcement Made by Berlin of the Capture of the Country's Leading Commercial City by Von Mackesen—Last Hold on Danube Threatened.

London, Jan. 6.—The Germans and Bulgarians have captured Braila, the Roumanian Danube port and the country's most important commercial city, according to an official announcement made by the Berlin war office.

The statement adds that Dobrudja has been entirely cleared of Russians and Roumanians. The statement made by the Berlin office several days ago said that only a little strip of this province was held by a Russian rear guard.

Braila is important as a granary and oil depot. The forces of Field Marshal von Mackensen had been driving toward it for several days. The afternoon announcement from the Berlin war office said that on the westerly side of the Danube, where the town is located, the German forces had pierced the bridgehead protecting the city, thus paving the way for its capture.

The forward movement of the forces under von Mackensen not only threatened Braila but Galata, twelve miles to the north, as well, and the capture of the latter city is believed to be imminent. Its fall would deprive the Roumanians and Russians of virtually their last hold on the shores of the Danube west of the Bessarabia boundary.

The German statement announcing the fall of Braila follows:

"It is reported that in Great Wallachia the main commercial city of the Roumanians, Braila, has been captured by German and Bulgarian troops.

"Dobrudja has been entirely cleared of the enemy."

On the northern end of the front in Russia the German lines have been attacked furiously by Russian forces. The Russian offensive here apparently is centered in the vicinity of Friedrichstadt, and Berlin reports that the fighting is still in progress, indicating that an important battle may be taking place.

Vanished Greatness of Halicz.

Halicz is one of those Galician towns with a past record grander than its present appearance warrants. Excavations made in the suburbs toward the end of the last century disclosed extensive remains which proved it to have been at one time a great city, whose existence was not dependent, as now, upon brine wells. The theory which accounts for the decay of a town that once formed the headquarters of the Prince of Halicz is that destruction overtook it during the first great Mongol invasion.—London Chronicle.

LEAK PROBE IS BIG SENSATION

Tumulty's Name Mentioned by Wood.

RUMORS ONLY EVIDENCE

Representative Wood Disclaimed Making Charges Against Any One—Only Gave Contents of Letters Received by Him Giving Rumors.

Washington, Jan. 6.—Testifying before the first of the public hearings held by the house rules committee on his resolution asking an inquiry into rumors that somebody made money in the stock market through a "leak" on the president's recent peace note, Representative Will R. Wood, of Indiana, caused a sensation when he brought in the name of Secretary Tumulty, and drew from that official a flat denial that he knew of the president's intentions and a demand for a public denial from the Indiana solon.

Representative Wood specially declared that he made charges against no one and was presenting only information that had come to him. Much of his information, Mr. Wood said, came in a letter from A. Curtis an independent New York stock operator.

In addition to Secretary Tumulty Mr. Wood brought in the name of a "Mr. Bolling," brother of the president's wife, whom he did not identify further; Bernard Barnach, a New York stock operator; Otto H. Kahn, of Kuhn, Loeb & Co.; Thompson and McKinnon, and Lamson Bros. & Co., Chicago, brokers; E. F. Hutton & Co., New York brokers, and F. A. Conolly & Co., a local brokerage house in which Wood said the "Mr. Bolling" he referred to was a partner.

Wood disclaimed intending to give the impression that he believed Mr. Tumulty or any one else, for that matter, profited by the so-called leak; that he was merely stating what had come to him, that he realized the danger of making such statements in public and for that reason he had preferred to make his statements in secret session, which the committee denied.

At the conclusion of the session Chairman Henry announced that Secretary Tumulty would appear without subpoena and that subpoenas had been ordered for Curtis and Barnach. Representative Gardner of Massachusetts, who has joined in Wood's agitation for investigation, will be heard and Thomas W. Lawson will be heard Monday.

"I am informed," Representative Wood testified, "that Barney Baruch had information about the note to the European belligerents two or three days before it was sent and that on two or three occasions at about that time he was in consultation with Mr. Tumulty at the Biltmore hotel in New York."

Representative Bennet of New York, a member of the committee, said on the house floor Wednesday that Baruch was reported in New York to have sold short 15,000 shares of steel on a rising market shortly before the note was made public.

Representative Wood objected strenuously to testifying in public. What information he had regarding the so-called leak, he said, was only hearsay, and he feared that a public statement would interfere with the work of the committee in obtaining witnesses.

Woman Wireless Operators.

The fact that a large number of women in the war zone are rendering valuable service as wireless operators has emphasized the fact that wireless telegraphy is a vocation to which women can easily adapt themselves. Miss Kathleen Parkin of San Rafael, Cal., recently received a first-grade radio operator's license from the United States government. She is only fifteen years old and in her third year of high school. Miss Granelia Parker of Florida is the first woman to act as universal operator. She is in charge of the radio set of the Clyde liner Mohawk. When the navy department recently issued its countrywide call for wireless operators who would be available in time of war a large number of women answered, among them social leaders in several cities. Wireless operating was an important branch of the work of the women's preparedness camp during the past summer, and a number of competent operators are available as a result.

Nantucket in the Limelight.

Nantucket, scene of Germany's latest submarine exploits, has taken a front place in many previous wars. Beginning life as a whaling station, the Quaker island built up a fleet of nearly 150 vessels by the end of the eighteenth century. In 1785, however, the British took or sunk 134 of these ships. To add to Nantucket's misfortunes, tallow oil began to displace whale oil for the making of candles, and in 1812 the whaling fleet again suffered destruction during this second war. The famous old Puritan town or village owed its whaling industry to the accident of Christopher Hussey having been blown out to sea, and thus provided with an opportunity of tackling the sperm whale afar from shore. The industry perished 50 years ago, giving place to the hotel and the boarding house.—London Chronicle.

Cut Trees by Exploding Dynamite.

Instead of an ax and saw to remove the tops of trees that are to be used as masts in logging operations, dynamite is used to shoot off the tops. After the branches have been removed, a rigger climbs the trees, with a set of irons, to the point where it is necessary to cut off the top. Here the trunk is usually about 12 inches in diameter. The rigger ties a string of dynamite cartridges, fastened end to end like sausages, around the trunk at this point, inserts a blasting cap with about 20 feet of fuse in one of these sticks, lights the end of the fuse, and descends before the explosion takes place. The tree top jumps into the air with the explosion and the trunk is left ready for attaching the rigging for dragging in and loading the logs.—Engineering Record.

The Cane Fashion.

In nearly all the pictures of men's fashions, and they are quite frequent these days as the women's, there is a cane in evidence, as if that was a necessary adjunct of the reigning fashion. It is not an unpleasant feature of a man's apparel. As a matter of style it is attractive, and as a contribution to his satisfaction it is more so. There is a drawback, to-wit, that in order for a man to carry a cane successfully he must dress well.—Columbus Journal.

Rosary of Christian Graces

By REV. L. W. GOSNELL
Superintendent of Men, Moody Bible Institute, Chicago

TEXT—And beside this, giving all diligence, add to your faith virtue; and to virtue knowledge; and to knowledge temperance; and to temperance patience; and to patience godliness; and to godliness brotherly kindness; and to brotherly kindness charity.—II Peter 1:5-7.

We hear much of "character building." Indeed, the words of the text have begotten in some minds the idea of adding various graces, one at a time, until a beautiful structure of character has been completed. Accompanying this idea is usually the thought that much effort of will must be expended to accomplish the end sought. To say the least this whole conception seems to be out of harmony with the gospel of salvation by grace, yet our text appears to favor it.

It will clear up matters considerably to note the change of translation in the Revised Version which instead of saying, "add to your faith," reads, "in your faith supply virtue," etc. In other words, faith is the root from which all these graces blossom forth. They are not entities to be added but flowers which will bloom if we care for the root of faith. We shall notice these graces in order.

First comes "virtue." The root idea of this word in both Greek and English is manliness, vigor, firmness, strength of will. The thought is embodied in a hymn Mr. Sankey used to sing with great effect.

Dare to be a Daniel!
Dare to stand alone!
Dare to have a purpose true—
Dare to make it known!

Such firmness is the fruit of faith. Men who have tried other cures for enslaving habits, but in vain, have found help here.

After virtue comes "knowledge." How appropriate that this should follow virtue, for no man is more dangerous than he who has a strong will but is not instructed in the use of it. He is related to the mule rather than to the ideal man. But the new spirit which comes through faith in Christ brings light as to our duties and the word of God is found a lamp to our feet. (The knowledge referred to here is practical rather than speculative; we may not be told the dimensions of heaven, but the way to get there is made plain.)

"Temperance," or self-control, comes next. What a commentary on our national sin that the word suggests abstinence from drink! But its meaning is much broader, for our judgments, our tastes, our speech must be controlled. (Here is found one of the secrets of greatness of character; great men impress us by their reserve, while little men put all their goods in the showcase.)

"Patience" may be defined as cheerful or hopeful endurance. It is far removed from the stoical idea; it is not the patience of the Indian at the stake, but of the Christian who sings as he suffers. It grows out of faith but is nourished by the hope of Christ's appearing, for we read often of "the patience of hope."

The next grace is "godliness," the fundamental idea of the word being reverence toward God. There is a notable lack of this virtue today. Would that we could keep ever before us such a revelation of God as is found in Isaiah 40, where we see him holding the oceans in the hollow of his hand, weighing the mountains in scales, calling the stars by name, and accounting the nations as the small, invisible dust of the balance!

Following godliness is "brotherly-kindness" or as the Revised Version reads, "love of the brethren." This is distinctively Christian, for those who are near to Christ will love one another. Many young Christians have been helped to assurance by the text, "We know we have passed from death unto life because we love the brethren."

Finally, we have "charity," or love.

This is love to all men, in the most general sense. Hence, Christians are incited to do all that mere humanitarians will do, and more!

It is to be noted in this cluster of graces, growing out of faith, that two are active, "virtue" and "knowledge;" two are passive, "temperance" and "patience;" one, "godliness," has reference to God; another, "brotherly love" has reference to the church; the last, "love," has reference to all mankind. How appropriate that they should be just seven in number, for this is the number of completeness!

We cannot urge sufficiently that these graces are not to be added, one at a time, but are to grow and develop simultaneously, out of our faith in Christ. Galatians 5:22 speaks not of the fruits of the Spirit, but of the "fruit," growing on the one cluster.

Old Jeremy Taylor speaks of this text as "a rosary of Christian graces." Let us tell over its beads frequently, with much prayer that these things may be in us and abound.

Seeking God's Help

Probably there is no problem that troubles earnest Christian people more than the question of prayer. Perhaps there is no one of us who has not had misgivings, who has not sometimes wondered whether there is a Father who hears, who cares and who can answer our prayer.

"What profit should we have if we pray unto him?" This is the taunting question that Job imagines as rising to the lips of the wicked, who have been prosperous and unafflicted and who feel, therefore that they can get all the blessings they need without asking any help from God. We might paraphrase their words somewhat as follows: What is the use of prayer? What is it good for? This Job here is a man who prays—but look at him!

This experience of Job in the deeper side of prayer is one that we need to let sink very deeply into our lives, for most of our disappointment in prayer is due to our superficial idea of what prayer truly is. How often we think of it merely as entreating God for things that happen to loom large in our own selfish desires and have our thought so centered upon the material blessings that we want to get that we do not enter into Job's great experience of finding the way to God himself and so to the fulfilling of all the deepest needs of the soul. See how it is in the life of the family, where we find our truest analogy to prayer; it is only the child who finds in his father merely a means of getting the things he wants; when the child is grown to manhood he seeks the Father's presence for the sake of the Father himself. Likewise do we need to realize that it is only the childhood of our religious experience when we take our self-centered desires for material things as the measure of what prayer should bring. In the maturity of our religious life it is not things that we want from God, but rather the companionship of God himself. And this it is that prayer never fails to give! When we get this great conception of the value of prayer we shall no longer be troubled with the doubt as to whether our prayers can change God's purpose for us or for the world. God's purpose never needs to be changed, for his purpose for us and for all men is always the purpose of the greatest love and the greatest wisdom. It is not God that needs to be changed, but we!

Supreme Value of Prayer.
Hush, I pray, what if that friend Happen to be God!

When we come to realize that companionship with God is the supreme value for our lives, we shall never have any doubt about the value of prayer. We need to realize that the man of Uz, to whom came the doubting question, "What profit should we have if we pray unto him?" also came to express the deepest need of all his brother men when he cried, "Oh that I knew where I might find him!" The personal pronoun "him" expresses our greatest need, for however much we may think we need things, our fullest and most inclusive need is for the abiding companionship of God; for when he enters into our lives, all our needs are met.

To find the Great Companion—this is the supreme need of us all; and this it is that true prayer has never yet failed to give unto our lives. How petty and insignificant seem the things we so beg God for, when once we really appreciate the value of fellowship with him.

Supplication Always Answered.
You pray for victory over some temptation; your prayer is answered, for abiding in his presence, your aspirations are purified, and you are uplifted and inspired. You pray for peace of mind; your prayer is answered, it leads to that filial trust in the Heavenly Father that destroys the very roots of fear and disquiet. You pray for wisdom; your prayer is answered, for in God's presence you see things in the light in which the All-wise sees them. You pray for character; your prayer is answered, for character is formed by personal associations, and in prayer you enter into transforming fellowship with God, and so unconsciously grow more into his likeness. If we truly enter into companionship with him, every need of our soul is fully met. Our whole lives are different when we consciously feel ourselves with him.

The Bible.
This grand old Book of God still stands, and will continue to stand, though science and philosophy are ever changing their countenances and passing away. It is one of the few things in our world that never becomes obsolete. It speaks the language of all ages, and is adapted to all climes. Ever clear and ever young, it has the same power for the later as for the early mind; it is as much the religious vernacular of the Occidental as of the Oriental races. Instead, then, of being its defect, it is its great, its divine wisdom, that it commits itself to no scientific system or scientific language, whilst yet it brings before the mind those primal facts which no science can ever reach, and for this purpose uses those first vivid conceptions which no changes in science and no obsolescence in language can ever wholly impair.—Taylor Lewis.

Real Business of Christian Life.
To be doing good, to be seeking others' instruction, relief, moral elevation, present comfort, permanent well-being is the real business of the Christian life. To make the household happy and comfortable, to consider the interests and claims of all dependents; to watch over the virtue of the exposed; to put children on the track of duty and usefulness; to listen to the cry of the needy; to remove stumbling-blocks from the path of those who must needs walk in darkness; to seize the chance of serving any mortal creature as a glad opportunity of honoring God and humanity—this is the evidence of that love in the heart, and that ever active principle of obedience to Christ's example, compared with which professions, and experiences, and prayers, and fervors of feeling are trifling and deceptive.

Church's Weakness.
It is still true that if we will "let him (Jesus) . . . alone," unencumbered by our doctrine and dogma, unfettered by ritual and ceremony, undistorted by the false witness of life which denies faith, "all men will believe on him." Nothing is clearer than the fact that the world's quarrel is not with Christ, but with attempted human organization of his influence. Yet the tragedy, not only of today but of former days also, is that the church has not been able to leave Christ alone. This is the secret of her too obvious weakness. This is why she has so little spiritual grip upon the world. She has lost the apostolic spirit of "no man, save Jesus only," in her own life, and consequently in her message and witness.—The Christian.

Life of Peace.
To have known one good old man—one man who, through the chances and mischances of a long life, has carried his heart in his hand, like a palm branch, waving all discords into peace—helps our faith in God, in ourselves, and in each other, more than many sermons.—G. W. Curtis.

Falsehood's Many Faces.
If falsehood had, like truth, but one face only, we should be upon better terms; for we should then take the contrary to what the liar says for certain truth; but the reverse of truth hath a hundred figures, and is a field indefinite without bound or limit.—Montaigne.

Glorify and Enjoy.
The older I grow—and I now stand on the brink of eternity—the more comes back to me that sentence in the catechism which I learned when a child, and the fuller and deeper its meaning becomes: "What is the chief end of man? To glorify God and enjoy him forever."—Carlyle.

ECONOMY PROGRAM

The Seventieth biennial session of the Indiana Legislature is only a few days old, but even at this early hour, old time legislative observers have come to the realization that with the return of the Republican party to control of the State Government a new idea of public responsibility actuates those in control from that obtained during recent sessions when the Democratic organization ran things to suit itself. To the job hunter and the lobbyist Indiana's Legislative halls seems a strange place indeed these days.

The Republicans did not hem, haw or stutter in going about the business of redeeming the promises of efficiency and economy in the conduct of public business that were made by the party's candidates during the recent campaign. When the word went out from the Republican House and Senatorial caucuses before the session opened that each house would conduct its business with less than half the number of paid employes that were placed on the public pay-rolls in 1913 and 1915 by the Democratic organization, there was a disposition on the part of the opposition to set up and take notice. Whoever heard of it being impossible for a majority member of the Indiana House to place on the state payroll at least one constituent for the full session? Even that does not go now, with the Republicans in power. Lucky indeed is the majority member who is able to secure a 30 day position for one of his own selection.

Among the new ideas in the conduct of legislative business that have been introduced by Republicans is that of having all bills engrossed on typewriters rather than by long hand as has long been the bungle-some custom. This also applies to the preparation of the journal. Another new idea is found in the introduction of the process of photographing bills for the use of members. In times past, there have been times when controversies have arisen regarding the treatment of bills after they have been introduced in the Legislature. Under the old system it would not have been difficult for an unscrupulous employe, at the instance of an unscrupulous lobbyist to change the location of a comma or mark out a word, thereby rendering void the work of the Legislature when the members were not looking. This sort of work will be impossible when each bill goes before the lens of a camera.

The Republican idea seems to be to make it plain to the people of Indiana during the next sixty days that they intend to "make good" on every promise made the people of Indiana during campaign days.

Exciting news comes from the South. Today's dispatches say that the Mexican government officials claim that the Carranzistas have routed the Villistas in a skirmish at Jimenez. This should be encouraging news to the de facto government and afford another reason why the American administration should continue the border situation parleys.

Governor Ralston has appointed another commission to interpret the Indiana registration law. A large volume of "interpretations" was recently issued by the first commission appointed. By the time the public is thoroughly informed concerning the law it will be so antiquated that a new measure will be required.

This is the open season for annual reports, the time when the public reads how much its government cost for twelve months. The statements are read with a mingled feeling of gratitude and thanksgiving that the expenditures were no larger and a feeling of alarm of what they might have been.

Texas is always doing the startling thing. It now presents to the world another famous man, who won his fame by feeding wild ducks. But Texas hasn't anything on the District of Columbia where congress is always taking care of a small flock of lame ducks.

Temperance Notes

VAMPIRE TRADE.

The following quotation is from a speech delivered at a business man's meeting in Liverpool, England, by Mr. Alfred Booth, head of the Cunard Steamship company. The American citizen who advocates "preparedness"—for peace or for war—will do well to ponder these things:

"The most glaring example of a form of consumption which we could perfectly well dispense with is the drink traffic. I am not thinking now of the temperance side of the question. Important though that is, we have got far beyond that now. I am thinking of the demand which the trade makes upon the services of our ships, our railways and carts, and of our labor. Thirty thousand tons a week of barley and other products are brought into this country for the brewing and distilling trades! Think of the demand which this makes on the depleted resources of our mercantile marine. Then all this stuff, together with the larger quantity which is grown at home, has to be carted and hauled by rail to the brewery or distillery. Then it has to be brought back again and distributed to the consumer. In addition to this, 6,000 miners are kept permanently employed in getting coal, and 36,000 tons of coal to be sent every week to these breweries and distilleries. Taken in the aggregate, the services absorbed by this trade are on a gigantic scale, and the net result of it all is a decrease in national efficiency. I say in all seriousness that, if we are to maintain our armies in the field, we shall before long have to choose between bread and beer."

SENSIBLE ARGUMENT.

This from the Daily Oklahoman:

"The ardent prohibitionists make extravagant claims for their policy, with which it is not necessary to agree. But if anybody can produce one sensible argument in behalf of the saloon, he can get rich a good deal quicker than Mr. Wallingford. The brewers will sprinkle him with diamonds and the distillers will upholster his purse with million-dollar bills.

"The silence remains unbroken. It can't be done. There simply isn't a word to say for the saloons. How they managed to hold on as long as they have is one of the mysteries. It is also one of the most serious reflections upon our capacity for self-government.

"Posterity is going to have a good deal to wonder about. Among the follies of the fathers will stand the saloon."

SHORTAGE IN COLORADO.

The state penitentiary of Colorado is threatened with a shortage of occupants unless something is done at once to stop the ravages of prohibition. For a period of approximately ten weeks this year, from May 1 to July 14, the penitentiary received but 44 prisoners, less than one-third of the 137 prisoners which were sentenced during the same period of 1915. During July of last year 33 prisoners were admitted to the penitentiary. Up to July 18 of this year only one lonely victim was received. "That," says Warden Tom Tynan, "the story of Prohibition in Colorado given in a nutshell."

Poor Colorado! Here is a chance for Tom Gilmore to fly to her relief with some of the latest brewery-distilled manufactured "facts."—Louis Albert Banks.

WHY A NUISANCE?

Why is a slaughter house a nuisance? Because its noisome odors cannot be confined to the land on which it is situated.

And who has a right to complain of a slaughter house? Everyone has a right to complain as soon as the odors of the slaughter house reach him.

And why is a saloon a nuisance? Because its evil influences cannot be confined to the block in which it is located or to the city which licenses it to do business.

And who has a right to complain of a saloon? Everyone who lives within the radius of its evil influence—everyone who suffers from the use of the liquor which he sells.—William Jennings Bryan.

TOLL OF THE BREWERY.

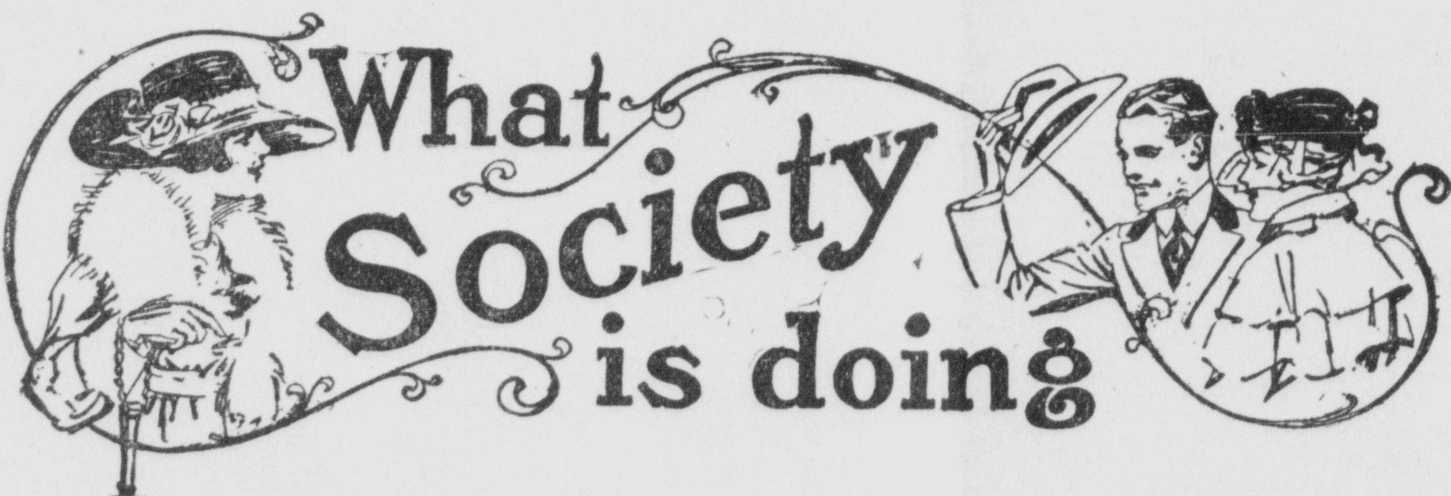

Such horrors as a great modern joint-stock brewery perpetrates are unrivaled in the whole world's history. Men in past centuries were made chattel slaves. But the slaves kept their health. Men have been killed by thousands; but the children of the murdered remained living. Now they make slaves of them and murder them at the same time. They kill them together with their children and children's children. They kill them slowly; they torture them slowly to death.

LARGE REDUCTION.

According to the official report of the internal revenue department, the number of barrels of beer sold in the United States during the first ten months of the present fiscal year, beginning July 1, 1915, have decreased 2,226,670 barrels, as compared with the first ten months of the previous year.

Frank Linke, of Washington township, was in the city today and went to Brownstown on business.

WITTENBERG GLEE CLUB
COMING NEXT WEDNESDAY

Strong Organization of College Singers to Give Program at Majestic Next Week.

The Wittenberg Glee Club, which is to be heard at the Majestic theater next Wednesday evening, comes heralded as one of the very best organizations of this kind in the country. Press comment from the cities in which they have appeared are unanimous in their unstinted praise of the collegians from Springfield, and a very meritorious program is assured. Speaking editorially after the return of the club from its recent tour of Ohio and Pennsylvania, the Springfield Sun said:

"This club made a record for itself. In fact, the outcome was so satisfactory that the most favorable comments are being received from many sources. In Pittsburgh the club sang in Carnegie Hall and among the audience was a man who was a stranger to Wittenberg. He by a mere play of chance found himself present. It happened, however, that he knew in a business way a Wittenberg alumnus. He wrote him that the concert was one of the best he ever heard in Pittsburgh, and Harvard had been there only a few weeks before. One music enthusiast in that city claimed that Wittenberg was better in many respects than Harvard, as the music was more difficult than that attempted by the Eastern organization."

The club gives special attention to classical music, and the second part of their program will be devoted to selections from the operas of Verdi, Offenbach, Gounod, Donizetti and Wagner. Several difficult oratorio selections, such as the "Hallelujah Chorus," from the "Messiah," are also on their program.

The club is being brought here under the auspices of the Lutheran Social Aid Society. Reserved seats for the engagement will be on sale Monday.

CHANGES IN THE HOUSE MAY AID PROHIBITION

Temperance Advocates Thing Changes are Good for Passage of Measure.

Washington, January 6.—There are now serving in the house of representatives 139 members who were not in the house when a vote was taken on December 22, 1914, on the Hobson resolution submitting to the states a prohibition amendment to the federal Constitution.

That vote resulted in 197 members declaring themselves in favor of the measure to 189 declaring themselves against it. All amendments presented at the time to the measure for the purpose of weakening it were voted down by a substantial majority. When the vote was taken fifteen absentees were paired, ten in favor of the measure and five against it, while twenty-seven other members of the house did not vote.

States which were solid for the bill were: Arizona, Arkansas, Colorado, Idaho, Montana, New Mexico, North Dakota, Oklahoma, Oregon, South Carolina, Kansas, South Dakota, Tennessee, Washington and Wyoming. Total, fifteen.

Since the vote was taken on the resolution several states, whose congressmen did not vote solidly for the measure, have adopted either statutory or constitutional prohibition.

Therefore, it is reasonable to assume that the resolution may gain in strength in proportion to the members from these states who either voted in the negative last time or failed to vote.

Further, the undisputed growth of public sentiment since the last vote was taken on national prohibition alone affords reasonable ground for expecting the resolution to have additional strength when another vote is taken. This same growth of public sentiment may be expected to result in a decided advantage for the prohibition measure among the 139 new members of the house, some of these representatives having succeeded members who in 1914 voted or were paired against the measure.

Another interesting fact is that no state which was under prohibition law when the vote was taken in 1914 has since reversed itself on that question, while Florida and Utah have elected Governors and legislatures pledged to the enactment of prohibition laws, and the prohibition question is to the fore in Indiana.

Representative Webb, of North Carolina, whose name the resolution now before the congress bears, says assurance has been given him by the rules committee it will bring out a rule, if necessary, in order to get consideration for the measure at this session.

HANNA RETIRES AS HEAD OF INDIANA BOYS' SCHOOL

George A. H. Shideler Named to Succeed Him by the Board of Control.

By United Press.

Plainfield, January 6.—Guy C. Hanna, for six years superintendent of the Indiana Boys' school here, today retired and was succeeded by George A. H. Shideler, of Marion. Hanna resigned several weeks ago and Shideler was appointed by the board of control of the institution, on the recommendation of Governor Ralston, to take his place.

Shideler has long been connected with the administration of affairs of state institutions. He was at various times a member of the board of control of the Indiana Boys' school for two terms; warden of the Michigan City state prison for two years; member of the commission which supervises the construction of the Southeastern Hospital for Insane at Madison; member of the commission which picked the site for the state farm for short-term prisoners; president of the board of trustees of the farm.

The position carries a salary of $3,600 and maintenance for the office. Hanna, who retired following a quarrel with Governor-elect Goodrich during the recent campaign, will become president of a firm which will manufacture a puncture-proof pneumatic tire. The tire was invented by Hanna after two years of experimenting.

The concern to be known as the Dominion Sales and Manufacturing Company, will be incorporated at once with headquarters in Indianapolis. Business will be transacted only in Canada with the main Canadian office at Toronto.

Indianapolis, Ind., January 6.—Appraisal of the estate of James Whitecomb Riley, was made today by John C. McCloskey, inheritance tax appraiser. The estate was valued at $200,000 but owing to a confidential agreement between Henry Fite, a brother-in-law of the Hoosier poet, and the Bobbs-Merrill Publishing company, McCloskey believes it may be necessary to summon the publishers to testify in court before he will be able to learn the full amount for a taxation basis.

A DENTISTS FORMULA

VEGETABLE CALOMEL

Vegetable calomel, extract of the root of the old-fashioned may-apple plant, does not salivate. As a liver stimulant, it's great. It's a perfect substitute for ordinary calomel (mercury); in fact, it's better, because its action is gentle instead of severe and irritating—and it leaves no mean, disagreeable after-effects. Physicians recognize this and prescribe may-apple root (podoophyllin, they call it) daily.

Combined with four other standard, all-vegetable remedies, may-apple root may now be had at most any druggist's in convenient sugar-coated tablet form by asking for Sentanel Laxatives. If you forget the name, ask for the box that has the picture of the soldier on it.

These tablets are small, easy to take and are really wonderful little performers.

They quickly clean out the poisons that are causing you headache, constipation, sour stomach, biliousness, dizzy spells, bad breath and coated tongue.

They are mild. They never gripe. And they are a bowel tonic as well as a cleanser and liver regulator. A 10c box should last one several weeks. A Physician's trial package (4 doses) will be mailed you free if you write mentioning this advertisement. The Sentanel Remedies Co., 802 Madison Ave., Covington, Ky.

PEACE MEETINGS PLANNED

First of Series by German-Americans to Be Held at Philadelphia.

Milwaukee, Wis., Jan. 6.—German-Americans are organizing peace meetings throughout the country, according to the Milwaukee German papers. The first meeting has been called for Philadelphia this month. The German-American Alliance is back of the plans for many of the meetings. In Milwaukee no announcement has been made of such an attempt, but it is likely to be made soon.

The papers here are strongly in favor of the peace mass meeting, and many of the German leaders are among those who will figure in the visit here this week of President Lowell, of Harvard, and his meeting of the League to Enforce Peace.

GARY MAYOR WILL FIGHT

Will Make Stand Against Impeachment Charges Filed by Council.

Gary, Ind., Jan. 6.—R. O. Johnson, mayor of Gary, is preparing to fight impeachment charges which the council has voted to file against him. The mayor will be charged with drunkenness, inefficiency, neglect of duty and interfering with a police officer in the discharge of his duty.

K. M. Burr and Alfred Carlson, members of the board of public safety, also will be impeached. They are friends of the mayor.

The mayor quarreled with the council several weeks ago over law enforcement, the council charging he made no effort to enforce the law against saloons and resorts. The quarrel came to a climax when the mayor discharged George Nestrovitch, night chief of police.

Nestrovitch refuses to quit and he is contesting the right of his successor, Captain Thomas Matthews, to issue orders.

POLICEMEN ARE EXONERATED

Held Not to Blame For Killing Robert Agee.

Connersville, Ind., Jan. 6.—The Fayette county grand jury has exonerated Henry Daniels and Policeman Adams of any blame in connection with the death of Robert Agee, who was shot to death by the police following an altercation several weeks ago when they tried to eject Agee from his home.

The grand jury reported to Judge Springer there was no evidence against the officers which would convict and held they were justified in killing Agee, as they considered their lives in danger.

Wilson Reprieves Indian.

Washington, Jan. 6.—In order to permit the state of Washington to keep clean its "no hanging record," President Wilson granted a sixty-day respite in the case of Edward Mabery, a half-breed Indian, who killed his sweetheart.

G. O. P. SENATORS TO BACK GOODRICH

Agree to Support Laws Advocated by Governor-Elect.

Indianapolis, Jan. 6.—At a caucus of Republican senators, held after the week-end adjournment, called by Senator Lanz of Bedford, caucus chairman, for the purpose of ironing out some of the differences between the senators on the question of committee assignments, all differences were settled and Edgar D. Bush, who will be inaugurated lieutenant governor on Monday, will name the committees soon after his inauguration.

It was the unanimous agreement that all of the senators would support the measures advocated by Mr. Goodrich, and that the state platform measures would be pushed through as rapidly as possible.

Following the inauguration of Mr. Goodrich and Mr. Bush on Monday actual legislation will begin in the senate with a roll call for the introduction of bills to take place probably Tuesday.

The senate plunder committee also held a meeting and decided on a list of employees for the upper house. The number of doorkeepers will be reduced from seventeen to ten, but there will be no decrease in the salaries of employees. The doorkeepers, stenographers and clerks each will receive a salary of $5 a day and the janitors will receive $3 a day. The pay of the senate pages has been fixed at $2.50 a day.

There will be ten clerical employees of the house, including minute, file, registry, indorsing, roll, engrossing, enrolling, calendar and reading clerks, and a postmaster. The program embraces not to exceed seven doorkeepers, eight stenographers for committee hearings and five pages. The house clerks will receive $5 a day, the doorkeepers and stenographers $25 a week and the pages $3 a day.

ILLNESS BREAKS UP STAFF

American Embassy at Vienna Hard Hit by Sickness.

Vienna (via London), Jan. 6.—As a result of illness the entire staff of the American embassy here has been disorganized. U. Grant Smith, of Pennsylvania, the counselor of the embassy, left Vienna for the United States to recuperate from a nervous breakdown. Frederic R. Dolbear, of New York, the second secretary of the embassy, left a few days ago, bound for America, to recover from an operation for appendicitis. Allen W. Dulles, of New York, the third secretary, is now convalescing from a severe attack of rheumatic fever. Sheldon H. Crosby, of New York, the first secretary, was operated on for appendicitis, but is now doing well.

The fact that the ambassador's private secretary, Cardeza, will be obliged to leave for the United States within a few days will further reduce the staff, leaving the second secretary, Rutherford Bingham, of Washington, as the sole support of Ambassador Penfield.

CHAPTER VI.

Practicing Economy.

It was a dull day early in December. Prudence and Fairy were sitting in the bay window of the sitting room.

"We must be sure to have all the scraps out of the way before Connie gets home," said Prudence, carefully fitting together pieces of a dark, warm, furry material. "It has been so long since father wore this coat, I am sure she will not recognize it."

"But she will ask where we got it, and what shall we say?"

"We must tell her it is goods we have had in the house for a long time. That is true. And I made this fudge on purpose to distract her attention. Poor child!" she added very sympathetically. "Her heart is just set on a brand-new coat. I know she will be bitterly disappointed. If the members would just pay up we could get her one. November and December are such bad months for parsonage people. Everyone is getting ready for Christmas now and forgets that parsonage people need Christmas money, too."

Fairy took a pin from her mouth. "I have honestly been ashamed of Connie the last few Sundays. It was so cold, and she wore only that little thin summer jacket. She must have been half frozen."

"Oh, I had her dressed warmly underneath, very warmly indeed," declared Prudence. "But no matter how warm you are underneath, you look cold if you aren't visibly prepared for winter weather. I kept hoping enough money would come in to buy her a coat for once in her life."

"She has been looking forward to one long enough," put in Fairy. "This will be a bitter blow to her. And yet it is not such a bad-looking coat, after all." And she quickly ran up a seam on the machine.

"Here comes Connie!" Prudence hastily swept a pile of scraps out of sight, and turned to greet her little sister with a cheery smile.

"Come on in, Connie," she cried, with a brightness she did not feel. "Fairy and I are making you a new coat. Isn't it pretty? And so warm! See the nice velvet collar and cuffs. We want to fit it on you right away, dear."

Connie picked up a piece of the goods and examined it intently.

"Don't you want some fudge, Connie?" exclaimed Fairy, shoving the dish toward her hurriedly.

Connie took a piece from the plate, and thrust it between her teeth. Her eyes were still fastened upon the brown furry cloth.

"Where did you get this stuff?" she inquired, as soon as she was able to speak.

"Out of the trunk in the garret, Connie. Don't you want some more fudge? I put a lot of nuts in, especially on your account."

"It's good," said Connie, taking another piece. She examined the cloth very closely. "Say, Prudence, isn't this that old brown coat of father's?"

Fairy shoved her chair back from the machine, and ran to the window. "Look, Prue," she cried. "Isn't that Mrs. Adams coming this way? I wonder—"

"No, it isn't," answered Connie gravely. "It's just Miss Avery getting home from school. Isn't it, Prudence? Father's coat, I mean?"

"Yes, Connie, it is," said Prudence, very, very gently. "But no one here has seen it, and it is such nice cloth—just exactly what girls are wearing now."

"But I wanted a new coat!" Connie did not cry. She stood looking at Prudence.

dence with her wide hurt eyes.

"Oh, Connie, I'm just as sorry as you are," cried Prudence, with starting tears. "I know just how you feel about it dearest! But the people didn't pay father up last month. Maybe after Christmas we can get you a coat. They pay up better then."

"I think I'd rather wear my summer coat until then," said Connie soberly.

"Oh, but you can't, dearest. It is too cold. Won't you be a good girl now, and not make sister feel badly about it? It really is becoming to you, and it is nice and warm. Take some more fudge, dear, and run out-of-doors a while. You'll feel better about it presently, I'm sure."

Connie stood solemnly beside the table, her eyes still fastened on the coat, cut down from her father's. "Can I go and take a walk?" she asked finally.

"May I, you mean," suggested Fairy.

"Yes, may I? Maybe I can reconcile myself to it."

"Yes, go and take a walk," urged Prudence promptly, eager to get the small sober face beyond her range of vision.

"If I am not back when the twins get home, go right on and eat without me. I'll come back when I get things straightened out in my mind."

When Connie was quite beyond hearing, Prudence dropped her head on the table and wept. "Oh, Fairy, if the members just knew how such things hurt, maybe they'd pay up a little better. How do they expect parsonage people to keep up appearances when they haven't any money?"

"Oh, now, Prue, you're worse than Connie! There's no use to cry about it. Parsonage people have to find happiness in spite of financial misery. Money isn't the first thing with folks like us."

"Poor little Connie! If she had cried about it, I wouldn't have cared so much. But she looked so—heart-sick, didn't she, Fairy?"

Connie certainly was heart-sick. More than that, she was a little disgusted. She felt herself aroused to take action. Things had gone too far! Go to church in her father's coat she could not! She walked sturdily down the street toward the "city"—ironically so called. Her face was stony, her hands were clenched. But finally she brightened. Her lagging steps quickened. She skipped along quite cheerfully. She turned westward as she reached the corner of the square, and walked along that business street with shining eyes. In front of the First National bank she paused, but after a few seconds she passed by. On the opposite corner was another bank. When she reached it, she walked in without pausing, and the massive door swung behind her.

The four older girls were at the table when Connie came home. She exhaled quiet satisfaction from every pore. Prudence glanced at her once, and then looked away again. "She has reconciled herself," she thought. Dinner was half over before Constance burst her bomb.

"Are you going to be busy this afternoon, Prudence?" she asked quietly.

"We are going to sew a little," said Prudence. "Why?"

"I wanted you to go downtown with me after school."

"Well, perhaps I can do that. Fairy will be able to finish the coat alone."

"You needn't finish the coat—I can't wear father's coat to church, Prudence. It's a—physical impossibility."

The twins laughed, Fairy smiled, but Prudence gazed at "the baby" with tender pity.

"I'm so sorry, dearest, but we haven't the money to buy one now."

"Will five dollars be enough?" inquired Connie, and she placed a crisp new bill beside her plate. The twins gasped! They gazed at Connie with new respect. They were just wishing they could handle five-dollar bills so recklessly.

"Will you loan me twenty dollars until after Christmas, Connie?" queried Fairy.

But Prudence asked, "Where did you get this money, Connie?"

"I borrowed it—from the bank," Connie replied with proper gravity. "I have two years to pay it back. Mr. Harold says they are proud to have my trade."

Prudence was silent for several long seconds. Then she inquired in a low voice, "Did you tell him why you wanted it?"

"Yes, I explained the whole situation."

"What did he say?"

"He said he knew just how I felt, because he knew he couldn't go to church in his wife's coat.—No, I said that myself, but he agreed with me. He did not say very much, but he looked sympathetic. He said he anticipated great pleasure in seeing me in my new coat at church next Sunday."

"Go on with your luncheon, twins," said Prudence sternly. "You'll be late to school. We'll see about going down town when you get home tonight, Connie. Now, eat your luncheon, and don't talk about coats any more."

When Connie had gone back to school, Prudence went straight to Mr. Harold's bank. Flushed and embarrassed, she explained the situation frankly. "My sympathies are all with Connie," she said candidly. "But I am afraid father would not like it. We are dead set against borrowing. After—our mother was taken, we were crowded pretty close for money. So we had to go in debt. It took us two years to get it paid. Father and Fairy and I talked it over then, and decided we would starve rather than borrow again. Even the twins understood it, but Connie was too little. She doesn't know how heartbreaking it is to keep handing over every cent for debt, when one is just yearning for other things. I do wish she might have the coat, but I'm afraid father would not like it. She gave me the five dollars for safekeeping, and I have brought it back."

Mr. Harold shook his head. "No, Connie must have her coat. This will be a good lesson for her. It will teach her the bitterness of living under debt! Besides, Prudence, I think in my heart that she is right this time. This is a case where borrowing is justified. Get her the coat, and I'll square the account with your father." Then he added, "And I'll look after this salary business after this. I'll arrange with the trustees that I am to pay your father his full salary the first of every month, and that the church receipts are to be turned in to me. And if they do not pay up, my lawyer can do a little investigating! Little Connie earned that five dollars, for she taught one trustee a sorry lesson. And he will have to pass it on to the others in self-defense! Now, run along and get the coat, and if five dollars isn't enough you can have as much more as you need. Your father will get his salary after this, my dear, if we have to mortgage the parsonage!"

Newspaper Suspends.

H. S. Dixon, publisher of the Hope Daily Star-Journal, announces that the paper will suspend publication on account of the high price of paper. In his published statement he says that last year his receipts were several hundred dollars short of his expenditures, and after exhausting every effort to meet the added expense he has concluded to suspend voluntarily before being forced to close up his business by creditors. Mr. Dixon has published the paper for about twelve years. He will continue to publish a weekly paper at $1.50 per year and his job printing business will be continued as usual. This is another of about 800 newspapers that have suspended since white paper began to cost exorbitant prices about a year ago.
